

Welcome to our playground

PostNL is one of the largest logistics e-commerce players in the Netherlands. Customer experience, robotisation, data – all of these things are united within logistics, and that provides unique opportunities for our colleagues.

Read more →

We're shaping the future together

If you can say you're building the most advanced logistics e-commerce chain in the Netherlands, then it's essential to collaborate with the leaders in the market, and use the latest technologies. For example, we frequently work with AWS and Mendix for our mission critical applications, and we hyper-digitalise the logistics chain wherever possible to ensure that our operations remain fast and secure.

PostNL puts all of the Netherlands at your disposal

PostNL visits every street in the Netherlands every day. Therefore, as a data, IT or digital specialist, you have an enormous impact with the projects you take on. After all, there's an expansive digital world concealed behind all of the mails and parcels. So, when you work with us on an algorithm or an improvement to the app, you'll be affecting the work of more than 33,000 delivery staff, or more than 9 million people with a PostNL account.

The platform that unites the Netherlands

Making a parcel locker available nationally for all Dutch residents is a great challenge in itself. However, opening up that platform for other delivery parties too is a digital puzzle that we're working on with numerous specialists. Our ultimate goal is for all this work to be invisible to you as a consumer when you want to collect or send something. In short, it's a massive project with considerable impact on society.

The app everybody wants

We live in a rapidly changing world, particularly when it comes to digital matters. PostNL aims to stay relevant to our customers by taking the lead in this area, and we are doing so through the PostNL app and our online environments, among other things. Thanks to almost 9 million customer accounts and the data associated with them, we know exactly what our customers want. This enables us to not only optimise our app, but also to build the app that everyone

Check the video's for more information postnl.nl/playground

Right at home with PostNL

At PostNL, everyone works side by side on building the logistics e-commerce company of the future, involving everything from data and IT to business. This offers great challenges that you can really sink your teeth into. After all, you're not only at PostNL to make an impact, but also to have the experience of experimenting, testing and learning on our innovation platforms. If you have a great idea, we make sure it happens, together with our business customers and other players in the ecosystem. And that's what makes our playground as innovating and challenging as it can be.

Want to know more about working at PostNL? Visit postnl.nl/playground

